

Library Corner – June 2005

A much more prolific month with respect to journals crossing my desk. That doesn't mean I have had more time for reading though!!

European Respiratory Journal, 25 (5), May 2005

Cheyne-Stokes respiration and supine dependency. C. Sahlin et al. pp 829-833.

Severity of obstructive airway disease and risk of osteoporotic fracture. F de Vries et al. pp 879-884.

Standardised mortality rates in females and males with COPD and asthma. T Ringbaek et al. pp 891-895

Review: Genetics of fibrosing lung diseases. J.C. Grutters and R.M. Du Bois, pp 915-927

And from the Woolcock: Institute

The effects of body weight on airway calibre. G.G. King et al. pp 896-901

Thorax, 60(5) May 2005

How should COPD patients exercise during respiratory rehabilitation? Comparison of exercise modalities and intensities to treat skeletal muscle dysfunction. MA Puhan et al., pp 367-375. (See also editorial pp 359-360.)

Exhaled nitric oxide in the diagnosis of asthma: comparison with bronchial provocation tests. N Berkman et al. pp 383-388.

Reproducibility of non-specific bronchial challenge in adults: implications for design, analysis and interpretation of clinical and epidemiological studies. S Chin and J.P. Schouten. pp 395-400.

Randomised controlled crossover trial of humidified continuous positive airway pressure in mild obstructive sleep apnoea. N.S. Marshall et al pp 427-432.

A simple procedure for measuring pharyngeal sensitivity: a contribution to the diagnosis of sleep apnoea. M Dematteis et al pp418-426

European respiratory monograph #31, April 2005

Lung Function testing. Edited by R. Gosselink and H. Stam.

Has chapters on spirometry, plethysmography, control of breathing, respiratory muscle assessment, forced oscillation and impulse oscillometry, pulmonary gas exchange, transfer factor, clinical exercise testing, respiratory function testing in infants and children and respiratory mechanics in the intensive care unit.

Thorax 60(2), February 2005-06-03

Tuberculin response in BCG vaccinated schoolchildren and the estimation of annual risk of infection in Hong Kong. CC Leung et al, pp124-129. (See also editorial, p90.)

From PMH in Perth,
